EMANUEL'S POPULARITY DIPS, PARTICULARLY AMONG AFRICAN-AMERICAN VOTERS

Emanuel
NANCY STONE/TRIBUNE

Chicago Tribune

Mayor Emanuel faces growing voter disenchantment, particularly among African-Americans, even as the overall number approving of his job performance holds steady at the halfway point of his first term, a new Tribune/WGN-TV poll shows.

The survey showed 50 percent approve of the job Emanuel is doing, roughly the same as a year ago. But those disapproving of his job performance stand at 40 percent—up from 29 percent a year before.

Compared to last year, Emanuel's negatives are up significantly among African-Americans. Now, more black voters disapprove than approve of his handling of the mayor's office. That's turned around from a year ago. Though Emanuel's approval rating among white voters is similar to what it was last May, the number of those who disapprove also is growing.

And although Emanuel billed himself as an agent for change in taking over City Hall after 22 years of Richard M. Daley, the poll found more than half of voters say they think Chicago is the same as it was under his predecessor.

Still, the poll found a majority of voters like Emanuel and find him honest.

Those are the midterm ratings of Emanuel in a poll of 800 Chicago voters that has an error margin of 3.5 percentage points. Interviewers conducted the phone survey from April 30 to Monday.

A politician seeking to keep his office, as Emanuel has vowed to do, wants a job approval rating above 50 percent. Emanuel is approaching that benchmark with less than two years to go before he stands for re-election.

Although no challenger has emerged yet, the poll points to serious political concerns for the mayor.

More African-American voters disapprove of Emanuel's job performance than approve, 48 percent to 40 percent. That's a sharp turnaround from a year ago, when 44 percent of black voters approved of Emanuel's job as mayor while only one-third disapproved.

Emanuel convincingly won election without a runoff in 2011 on the strength of carrying every majority-black ward in Chicago. He earned credibility as President Obama's first White House chief of staff.

Several potential factors may be driving the change in attitude among African-American voters.

The mayor found his last 12 months dominated by issues of increased gun violence. He has maintained a battle with unionized public school teachers over proposed school closings in a system serving a majority of minority students. And the issue of job growth and economic development have been a problem as unemployment remains above 10 percent.

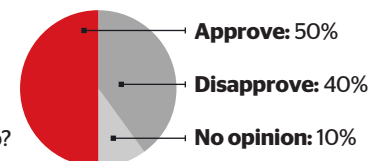

Emanuel also is undertaking a massive renovation of the CTA's Red Line from Cermak Road south to 95th Street—a five-month closing primarily affecting black commuters. That move was largely embraced by local African-American aldermen.

Asked in a recent Tribune interview whether he still had the backing of black voters who helped elect him, the mayor replied, "Nothing's ever static in life. If you think it is, well, nothing's static."

Another school year is coming to an end, and once again I wasn't asked to give a commencement speech. What a shame, because most speakers are boring and useless. Attention Toni Morrison, Al Gore and other big-name commencement speakers: Here is some advice college graduates can actually use. Feel free to borrow these tips.

GETTY IMAGES

- » No one cares about stories from your frat or sorority other than people from your frat or sorority.
- » Take advantage of any discounts your student ID allows for as long as possible. There are not many perks to being young and poor. This is one.
- » Your current relationship probably won't last—and that's a good thing. In the next few years you will change more than you have your entire life—and that's also a good thing.
- » That said, dating is the worst, so good luck.
- » You will struggle. You will fail. You will think you are doing everything wrong. Everyone feels like this, and I'm not sure it ever goes away.
- » Don't be afraid to ask for help. Everyone needs it. I'm pretty sure the key to life is empathy. People will help you. Talk to friends. Talk to your family. Trying to improve is nothing to be embarrassed about.
- » Stop watching so many YouTube videos. For real.
- » You are younger than you think. Don't panic when you turn 23 and your life isn't where you want it to be. Or at 24. Or for a long time.
- » The world is full of terrible people. Don't spend time with them.
- » No one's life is the "Big Pimpin'" video.
- » You may never get your dream job. Or it may change completely from what you thought it was. Multiple times.
- » You don't know all that much about the world, and you will do stupid things. Two weeks ago, I flew to L.A. for a girl who, it turns out, has a boyfriend. I told a MacArthur genius grant winner about this. He said he did that once too.
- » If you are going to pay $5 for a Starbucks coffee, stock up on enough Equal packets to make it worth it. No one will stop you. I promise.
- » College wasn't the best time of your life unless you let it be. You have so much freedom now. Travel! The world is only as big as what you've seen.
- » Whom you know is more important than people will admit.
- » There is too much emphasis on what job you get, what you produce—as if that solely defines you. "What do you do?" is the first question we ask people when we meet them. What matters so much more is who you are. Enjoy life.

CTA cleans up ad policy

Sex, violence and politics are off-limits on agency property

Chicago Tribune

Sex and violence sells, but no longer on the CTA.

The CTA board voted Wednesday to tighten the agency's advertising policy, allowing only commercial, promotional and governmental ads, as well as public service announcements from nonprofit groups on issues related to health, welfare or education.

The CTA will no longer accept advertising on any political or public issues.

As a result, medical facilities that perform abortions, for example, could still advertise the service, but groups that advocate for or against a woman's right to an abortion would have their ad requests turned down by the CTA, officials said.

Also banned from CTA property are ads for films, TV programs and video games that are adult-oriented or mature-rated. The new advertising prohibitions expand existing CTA rules to reject ads that depict graphic violence, officials said.

The CTA avoids any free-speech challenge covered under the First Amendment by designating the transit agency as a non-public forum, officials said. Other transit agencies have successfully used the same strategy in recent years, CTA general counsel Karen Seimetz said.

"CTA buses and trains are not public forums for debate," CTA President Forrest Claypool said. In the past, the transit agency spent too much time and money on legal fees determining whether controversial advertising was acceptable, he said.

Officials estimate the new advertising

FEELING CROWDED?

The CTA gave itself high marks Wednesday in a report card on efforts to "de-crowd" trains and buses. CTA trains and buses are less crowded at peak travel times than they were a year ago, according to the internal review by the transit agency of a $16 million initiative to more effectively balance service to match ridership demand.

The addition of service on selected bus routes and rail lines doesn't mean riders now are guaranteed a seat while riding. In fact, anecdotal reports from commuters give mixed reviews on whether there is significant relief from sardine can-like conditions at the busiest morning and evening travel hours.

policy will cost the agency $100,000 in annual revenue. Advertising generates about $20 million annually for the transit agency, officials said.

CITY HALL NOTEBOOK

It was a busy day Wednesday at City Hall. Here are three important topics that surfaced.

Biker safety

Cyclists who break traffic laws and drivers and passengers who open their doors in the path of bicycles would be hit with steeper fines, under a proposal introduced by Mayor Emanuel.

Cubs night games

The Cubs will be allowed to play as many as 46 night games starting next year, under a proposal introduced by Emanuel and Ald. Thomas Tunney (44th). The Cubs currently play 30 night games but requested more as part of the plan to renovate Wrigley Field.

Parking meter deal

Chicago's private parking meter operator could make $2 million per year in new convenience fees on top of investing the deposits made by drivers who pay by phone, under one new aspect of a complicated agreement Emanuel presented. Chicago Parking Meters LLC would also get back nearly 1,000 lucrative Loop parking spaces.

EXPRESS LINES

- » Tall Ships Chicago 2013 will be held from Aug. 7-11 on the lakefront pier, where visitors can interact with the crews, tour the ships and take excursions.
- » Charges were dropped Wednesday against an off-duty police officer accused of pinning down a female officer and touching her inappropriately at a party last month.
- » A woman on her way to work was killed Wednesday when her car collided with a police SUV that was pursuing a suspect in South Shore, authorities said. TRIBUNE

Woman chokes at Wrigley

Chicago Tribune

Martin Oleskiewicz and his sister Maureen were munching on hot dogs at Wrigley Field as they watched the Cubs warm up before the start of Sunday's game against the Cincinnati Reds when Maureen suddenly slumped and fell between the rows of the right-field bleachers.

"She just went down," said Martin, 23, shaking his head at the memory of standing by helplessly as a nurse in the crowd and emergency medical technicians performed chest compressions on his sister. "They were saying she didn't have a pulse. It felt hopeless."

He said Maureen hadn't shown signs of distress. She never grabbed her throat. She never made a sound.

He hadn't known that Maureen had choked on a hot dog and was unable to breathe.

She was rushed to Illinois Masonic Medical Center not far from the ballpark and pronounced dead early Tuesday, according to the Cook County Medical Examiner's office. She was 28.

"It's horrifying," said her mother, Margaret Oleskiewicz, weeping in her Palos Heights home Wednesday afternoon. "We're beyond devastated."

The Cubs released a statement expressing condolences to Maureen's family and friends.

FBI agents search a home Tuesday where three women were found alive after vanishing in Cleveland. REUTERS

Ropes, chains found inside kidnap house

CLEVELAND Cleveland resident Ariel Castro was charged Wednesday with kidnapping and raping three women who were rescued from his house Monday after nearly a decade in captivity.

Castro's two brothers Pedro and Onil, originally arrested in the case, were not charged, city prosecutor Victor Perez said at a news conference.

The charges came as police revealed that the women, who were rescued Monday after one of them, Amanda Berry, fled with the help of a neighbor, had not seen any previous chances to escape in nearly 10 years of captivity.

"The only opportunity, after interviewing the young ladies, to escape was the other day when Amanda escaped," Cleveland Deputy Police Chief Ed Tomba said at the same news conference.

"They were not in one room, but they did know each other and they did know each other was there," he added.

Police said earlier that they found ropes and chains in the house that had been used to hold them prisoner. No human remains were found, they said.

Castro, 52, faces four counts of kidnapping relating to Berry, now 27, Gina DeJesus, 23, Michelle Knight, 32, and Berry's 6-year-old daughter, who was conceived and born during her mother's captivity, authorities said.

A paternity test will be conducted to determine the girl's father, Tomba said.

Berry and DeJesus went to their families' homes Wednesday, while Knight was in a Cleveland hospital where a spokeswoman said she was in good condition.

Diplomat: Flaws in Libya defense

A former U.S. diplomat in Libya told lawmakers Wednesday more could have been done to prevent last year's deadly assault on the U.S. mission in Benghazi in which a U.S. ambassador was killed.

Arias found guilty of murder

An Arizona jury found Jodi Arias guilty on Wednesday of first-degree murder in the death of her ex-boyfriend in a capital trial that riveted America for months with graphic sexual evidence and bizarre testimony.

Lawmakers demand Air Force change

Senators alarmed by a jump in sex crimes in the military called on Wednesday for a cultural overhaul of the Air Force, and a lawmaker exposed a website used by Marines that she said depicted a "culture of misogyny and sexual harassment."

CONFERENCE SEMIFINALS ★ GAME 2

BULLS COME HOME WITH SPLIT IN MIAMI— AND A SPLITTING HEADACHE

Ever since LeBron James chose Miami over the Bulls in summer 2010, he's been known as a crybaby in Chicago. He wants calls from the refs. He doesn't like physical play. He can't stand airline food. All right, we're guessing about that last one.

But we're certain the Bulls get under his skin, and even when he's celebrating, he's more Lovie Smith-stoic than Carlos Boozer-excitable. Here's how Game 2 unfolded Wednesday, according to his mood. REDEYE

LEBRON-O-METER

HEAT

THE STARTING LINE

► Big Ten-ACC Challenge matchups: Illinois at Georgia Tech (Dec. 3), Northwestern at N.C. State (Dec. 4) ► Cubs manager Dale Sveum anoints Kevin Gregg as closer

1ST QUARTER

WHINY: Dwyane Wade misses a dunk after going around Marco Belinelli. Clearly that was a foul on the rim.

TANTRUM: Joakim Noah takes a feed and hammers home the two-hand dunk. James does not like it when Noah succeeds.

STOIC: James beats the Bulls D down-court and is rewarded with an easy layup. Yay.

WHINY: Jimmy Butler, the Bulls' iron man, drains a 3-pointer to put the Bulls up 15-12.

STOIC: James stuffs home an alley-oop; he's 3-for-3 with six points at this juncture.

STOIC: James goes coast to coast for the jam after a steal. Now he's 4-for-4.

TANTRUM: James stiff-arms Butler and gets called for an offensive foul. His momentum carries him into Noah, who tries to restrain James. Then things get testy, ending in technical fouls on both of them.

STOIC: James goes one-on-five for a bucket as time expires. He had 12 points in the quarter. Yeah, he's good. And in a good mood right about now.

SCORE: HEAT 25, BULLS 20

WHINY: ... Then Daequan Cook bear-hugs James, who has to play peacemaker as Andersen wants to go after Cook. Civility reigns—for now.

TANTRUM: James slams the ball to the floor with two hands after Carlos Boozer posts him up for an easy 2. Awww, did Boozer make you wook silly, LeBron?

WHINY: Butler hits a spectacular reverse layup. And, of course, is fouled. He hits the free throw, and it's 42-38 Miami.

STOIC: On consecutive possessions, James hits a 3 and Wade gets free for tomahawk dunk. All of the sudden the Heat lead 49-38.

STOIC: By the end of the quarter, it's all going the Heat's way, as they're knocking down open shots at will. Ugh.

SCORE: HEAT 55, BULLS 41

2ND QUARTER

WHINY: Miami's Chris Andersen commits a flagrant foul, shoving Belinelli into the bench. He's lucky Lance Briggs isn't around ...

STOIC: ... On the same possession, Marquis Teague is called for a technical after he was fouled driving to the hoop ...

CHECKED

Bulls players sit on the bench
JOHN J. KIM/TREBUNE

3RD QUARTER

STOIC: James finds Wade for an alley-oop dunk to put the Heat ahead 60-41. Not even a high-five.

WHINY: James gets smacked three times on the way to the hoop. He's probably upset he couldn't get three foul calls on one play.

STOIC: Halfway through the quarter, Wade lays it in to give the Heat a 21-point lead. LeBron is beaming ear to ear. On the inside.

STOIC: James claps after Udonis Haslem ties up Cook for a jump ball. He's clapping his hands!

STOIC: James drops a behind-the-back pass in the lane to Ray Allen, who hits it and converts a three-point play. Then he assists on the team's last two baskets of the period. Dude, you can stop showing off now. The outcome is no longer in doubt.

SCORE: HEAT 85, BULLS 56

4TH QUARTER

Uh, more of this:

FINAL SCORE: HEAT 115, BULLS 78

BULL POWER

WHAT'S BUZZIN' IN THE BULLS' WORLD

Tom Thibodeau

THE DIGITS

8th

Bulls coach Tom Thibodeau finished eighth in the voting for the NBA Coach of the Year award. Denver's George Karl took home this year's prize. As for Thibodeau, he replied "no" when asked whether he cared about finishing eighth. Same old Thibs.

1st

According to Sports Business Daily, the Bulls led the NBA in regular-season attendance this season, with 896,944 fans (an average of 21,877 per game). That was more than 70,000 ahead of the Dallas Mavericks.

Bad to worse for Hinrich?

On the Thursday that Luol Deng will reunite with teammates in Chicago, Kirk Hinrich is scheduled for a second MRI on his severely bruised left calf, two sources told the Tribune. The initial exam showed damage to muscle fibers, one source said, but the injury is failing to progress, so a second test will determine if a tear has developed. As for Deng, coach Tom Thibodeau said the forward is at home and improving.

1	The Hawks can close out Minnesota on Thursday if they stick to the plan that's been working well so far. Code name: Operation Clutterbuck.	... win. Duh!	... keep away from Cal Clutterbuck's greasy mustache.	... put the Wild in their place by rattling their cage early.	... win the game. This isn't rocket science here.
2	How has Patrick Sharp regained his scoring touch in the playoffs?	The healing power of laughter.	Not sure, but he is having a lot of success lately. Success, did you get that? Success, I said.	He's been siphoning the life force out of Kane and Toews, which is why they haven't scored.	Second- and third-string goalies are just what the doctor ordered.	By reading the local sports teams' playoff disappointments section at the local library.
3	Give Duncan Keith's newborn son a nickname.	Toothless CK. He can grow up to be a hockey player or comedian.	Anything but Toby (but I'd call him Duncan's Donut).	"Toothless." Wait, no, that's his father's nickname.	Hines Keith. So you get Duncan & Hines. #noicing	Lil' Hockey Expert.
4	Where does Jimmy Butler get the energy to play so many minutes for the Bulls?	Kid-friendly answer: Vegetables. Real answer: As long as he keeps it up, don't worry how he does it.	More Red Bull, less Portillo's.	From the blood of his vanquished foes.	He's played for Buzz Williams and Tom Thibodeau. They squeeze it out of you.	I think he reminds himself of when he was homeless and says "it could be worse."
5	What does Pittsburgh safety Ryan Clark mean when he says Tom Brady "sees ghosts"?	A misguided effort to ruin "The Sixth Sense" for a rival. He also claimed, "Brady is Einhorn."	Is Giselle really looking that pale these days?	He has a cameo in an upcoming episode of "Ghost Hunters."	He's haunted by the fact that he can't win a Super Bowl without a great defense.	Brady sees the ghost of playoff cheater past. See "Spygate" and "Tuck rule."

THE HAT TRICK

WHAT'S BUZZIN' IN THE BLACKHAWKS' WORLD

Jonathan Toews
SCOTT STRAZZANTE/TRIBUNE

Who you callin' a cheater?

Blackhawks center Jonathan Toews took the high road in disagreeing with Minnesota coach Mike Yeo's suggestion that the Blackhawks were cheating on faceoffs. "I don't think so," Toews said Wednesday. "You can watch a lot of faceoffs. ... I don't think our guys are really overstepping their boundaries by any means."

THE DIGIT

ONE

The Hawks have scored just one power-play goal in their series against Minnesota. "I still think we can [improve]," Patrick Kane said. "And by the end of the playoffs, hopefully we'll show you guys."

Don't get your hopes up

Hawks coach Joel Quenneville said Wednesday that center Dave Bolland and goaltender Ray Emery are doubtful for Game 5 on Thursday. Both still are recovering from lower body injuries.

Study call

Kyle Long, the Bears' first-round draft pick, is grounded. Sort of. The offensive lineman will miss 13 practices because—believe it or not—he has not completed final exams at Oregon. It's a scheduling snafu more than anything, as Oregon's school year runs later than most. Still, no slacking on your studies, young man.

White Sox pitcher Jake Peavy is conducting a charity raffle in concert with the Celebrities for Charity Foundation. Tickets are $2 (with a minimum five-ticket purchase) and are available at whitesox.com/peavy through 10 a.m. June 14.

Oh deer, another lawsuit

Vijay Singh sued the PGA Tour on Wednesday for exposing him to "public humiliation and ridicule" during a 12-week investigation into his use of deer-antler spray that ended last week when the tour dropped its case against him. It's his right to sue and all, but isn't this lawsuit a bit counterintuitive?

Quack ... quack ... quack

It's, uh, sink or swim for Carlos Zambrano. The ex-Cub signed with the Long Island Ducks of the independent Atlantic League in an attempt to resurrect his career. mlb.com reported Wednesday. Or maybe he should give the White Sox a call.

Supersizing the 'Office' finale

Los Angeles Times

Looks like "The Office" is putting in a little over-time before clocking out of its nine-year run.

NBC announced this week that the long-running comedy's final episode, which already was set to run an hour, will now extend an additional 15 minutes—airing from 8 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. May 16.

Show runner Greg Daniels has said he found making edits on the final episode to be a daunting task.

"There [are] all these moments and you want to make sure everybody has a chance to have some closure on their stories and say goodbye or whatever," he said. "It was a big question of trying to fit everything in. That's the big issue right now, because we have an 81-minute cut for the final episodes, and we have to cut it down to about 41 or 42 minutes. That's half of it! I don't know how we're gonna do it."

Looks like he and NBC were able to compromise—the good ol' Michael Scott way.

Speaking of the former Dunder Mifflin boss, NBC still has no comment on whether Steve Carell will return for the finale even though TV Line has reported that he will make a cameo. NBC released a brief description of the finale that reveals the Dunder Mifflin crew will gather for a reunion and a wedding.

Will viewers see Carell's Michael Scott at the altar with Amy Ryan's Holly? Tune in May 16.

Craig's List

Besides the final episodes of "The Office" airing at 8 p.m. Thursdays on NBC, Robinson can be seen:

- Friday in "Peeples"
- June 12 in "This Is the End," starring Seth Rogen, James Franco, Jonah Hill, Jay Baruchel and Danny McBride
- Sometime soon in "Rapture-Palooza," starring Anna Kendrick, Robb Corddry, Ken Jeong and John Francis Daley
- Currently in "Chicago vs. Chicago" video series with Nick Offerman on Funny or Die
- Possibly on NBC next fall, if his "Mr. Robinson" pilot gets picked up

CHICAGO NATIVE, 'OFFICE' STAR CRAIG ROBINSON TAKES 1ST LEADING ROLE IN 'PEEPLER'S'

By Matt Pals | REDEYE

Apropos of nothing, Craig Robinson is singing R. Kelly's "I Believe I Can Fly."

The Beverly native best known as Darryl Philbin on "The Office" is in the next room prepping for an interview about "Peeples," his biggest chance at flying—er, being a leading man. (Actually, he first entered the room saying, "All right, RedEye, baby! Now this is for real.")

Obviously, the higher stakes haven't diminished his personality. When prompted, the die-hard Sox fan doesn't hesitate to revive his rivalry with Illinois native and Cubs fan Nick Offerman or teach me a dance from the "Thriller" video he impressively replicates in "Peeples," opening Friday.

In the film, the 41-year-old actor (who left Chicago in 1999 and now lives in L.A.) plays Wade Walker, who wants to propose to his girlfriend Grace (Kerry Washington of "Scandal") but first must meet and impress her father (David Alan Grier), a federal judge. At the Trump Hotel, the Whitney M. Young Magnet High School and Second City alum talked about considering stardom, his feelings about nude beaches and what he wishes Darryl Philbin had done on "The Office."

"Peeples" is your first big leading role. When you look back, do you remember anyone telling you it wouldn't happen or that you were just a supporting player?

I've always been encouraged. Maybe a long time ago in college ... people were like, with trepidation, "It's tough!" I don't recall anybody saying, at least to my face, "No! He can't do this!" Probably because I was already on my way to doing what I want to do.

I was going to say, why would they say that? I'm sure you were funny and had a big personality then too.

Yeah, but in college nobody went into comedy. It wasn't the thing to go into. You don't go to college going, "I want to be a stand-up." It was just so unheard of.

People on IMDB are having a somewhat ridiculous debate about whether Grace and Wade would get together in real life. How do you respond to that?

Nice! Grace and Wade are together so there's no debate there. In real life, Craig Robinson/Kerry Washington? Kerry is an amazing person, and I would definitely date her, so sure.

Watch video from the interview, including Craig Robinson teaching us his "Thriller" dance moves, at redeychicago.com.

“Nick Offerman—suck it! Sox are going to do it over your Cubs! Get over it.”

She talked about you guys fighting like family on set. What's an example of that?

I don't know. It was just a very real—we kept it real. It was a real environment. We sang together, we played together. I don't remember too many fights, if any. I think one time Kerry was mad because I was texting. She's like, "Ahh! I don't like that!" It was one of those moments where I probably shouldn't have been. She was right. Again. Of course.

How did you respond?

I put my phone away.

And said, "Sorry, honey"?

Yeah, exactly. That's what you do when Kerry Washington says she doesn't like something. You fix it.

This movie prompts the question: How many times have you been to a nude beach?

I have not been.

Would you?

I would absolutely. Is that an invitation or ...

Yeah, I'm going after this interview.

Sweet! Good thing it's not cold ...

Why haven't you gone yet, then?

I mean, it's not on the top of my list. They're always so remote. There was one in Canada I heard about, but it was like oh, you gotta go 40 minutes. I want the one that I can just go and be like, "Ahhhh!" Like David Alan Grier was in the movie, "Here come the judge!" [Laughs.]

So next time you buy a place you'll have to find somewhere around the corner from a nude beach?

No, in that case I'll just go in my backyard ... nude backyard.

How often do you do that now?

Not often. Now I just kinda get nude to go outside and get the mail. I live in an apartment building, so I go ... down to the mail room, and I just hope nobody's down there to see, and I hope the cameras don't catch it.

What's something you wish Darryl got to do on "The Office"?

I don't know, maybe spank Angela or something; a nice sex romp scene. I don't know; everything he got was a gift. I don't know that they expected me to be around that long. I certainly didn't think I was going to be around that long. I didn't think it was going to be to the point where I was in all the episodes and toward the end of the run. So I'm cool with whatever he got.

Why didn't you think so?

It's television, it's Hollywood. You don't know. Each season is a new, "OK, are we going to get picked up?" There's always wondering. I'm not writing it and I don't know what I'm doing until the table read in that instance, so I just didn't know.

And you have a new show coming up.

"Mr. Robinson." It's NBC. It's a single-camera as well. And it centers on me as a funk band leader/substitute music teacher. [The] funk band [gigs don't] pay a lot, so I substitute teach for cash on the side. One day they put me in a music class and then I'm like, "Oh, I can do this." That's to the dismay of the principal, played by Jean Smart.

What's something new you get to explore through that?

Well, just from doing the pilot, I'm producing, I'm in the editing room and there's already a whole world of things that are open to me: My acting role, my production skill role, I'll be able to direct, I'll put some writing together. It's very exciting. If it gets picked up.

In "Peeples," you lay down on a stuffed lion for comfort. What was your comfort item as a kid?

Comfort item? Probably any food. [Or the] piano ... I didn't have a comfort thing. Did you have one?

I had a stuffed dog.

What was his name?

Benjamin.

Ohhhhhhh!

It's not like I brought him with. He's in the other room.

[Laughs.] You're going to be like Tom Hanks if you get separated from him. "Wilson!"

Carey vs. Minaj ... again

Los Angeles Times

Mariah Carey, whose clash with fellow “American Idol” judge Nicki Minaj has made headlines overshadowing the talent competition, warned Fox before the season began that having herself and the rapper-singer on the same panel could cause trouble, said her husband, Nick Cannon.

In an appearance on the “KTLA Morning News,” Cannon said of the feud, “My wife [had] foreseen all this. She tried to tell the network, ‘I don’t think this is going to work. I’m afraid ... I don’t need this.’”

Cannon said Carey warned that pairing her and Minaj on the same panel was “taking it in the wrong direction, because this is going to turn into one of those reality shows. She’s like, ‘I didn’t sign up to be on ‘Love and Hip Hop.’”

He said Carey had hoped that the show would be more about the participants: “She really loves these contestants.”

But he said Carey would continue to take the high road: “She comes home and just doesn’t have time for it. She’s too busy trying to be the world’s biggest superstar-mom.”

Ratings for the popular series have declined steadily this season. While Minaj has been a standout who has attracted positive reaction from viewers, Carey has not generated the same excitement. Rumors popped up last week that Fox was planning to replace Carey with former “Idol” judge Jennifer Lopez. Fox denied the report when Carey threatened legal action.

Prosperity cocktail at Shanghai Terrace
HILARY HIGGINS/REDEYE PHOTOS

From smoke to flowers to juice, there's more in these cocktail cubes than just plain old frozen water

By Kate Bernot | FOR REDEYE

At a high-end cocktail bar, everything from glassware to garnishes adds extra detail to your drinks. It's no surprise, then, that ice is the next frontier. The Aviary blew minds when it opened in 2011 with its alcohol-filled ice orbs, and now bartenders across the city are pushing the limits of what can be frozen into water. But these stunners are more than just a pretty embellishment: Flavored ice adds new tastes and aromas to cocktails as the cubes melt, making the last sip of your drink quite different than the first. Just looking to cool down on a hot patio? Of course, they'll take care of that, too.

Smokey Paloma ($13) at Taverna 750

750 W. Cornelia Ave. 773-904-7466

Cocktails need not be so stuffy and serious. That was the principle guiding Benjamin Newby, a cocktail consultant who created the recently revamped drink menu at this Italian-leaning Boystown restaurant. So when he wanted to put a spin on the paloma—a classic Mexican cocktail made with tequila and grapefruit soda—he added a few fun flourishes. The first is the drink's bourbon-vanilla ice cube, a 2-inch-by-2-inch square over which the bartender pours tequila and house-made grapefruitcello (like the Italian liqueur limoncello, but made from grapefruit). "I first poured the drink over a normal ice cube and I thought the cocktail needed to be a bit softer," Newby said. "The tequila was a tad too sharp, but the vanilla and bourbon round it out." The Smokey Paloma also includes some tableside drama: It's served in a glass that's brought to a table upside down, trapping hickory smoke inside. At the table, it's flipped and the ice cube is dropped into the smoke-filled glass; then the cocktail is poured over it. "The idea with this was to have stuff that was a lot of fun and performance-based," Newby said. "Each cocktail has a special thing that sets it apart."

Bottled cocktails (Happiness, Longevity and Prosperity) ($22) at Shanghai Terrace

108 E. Superior St. 312-573-6744

Frozen inside ice spheres like bugs trapped in amber, these chrysanthemum, orchid and marigold flowers aren't just beautiful but symbolic as well. "China is a culture of florals," said Jisoo Chon, director of food and beverage at The Peninsula's Cantonese-style restaurant Shanghai Terrace as well as the hotel's outdoor lounge, The Terrace at The Peninsula. "We pinpointed three flowers that are very famous for symbolic reasons, and married them with specific cocktails." The chrysanthemum, for example, has been grown in China since the fifth century B.C., and now represents a long, carefree life. That makes it the perfect accompaniment to the Longevity cocktail, a summer-appropriate combination of blue curacao, coconut rum and orange and pineapple juices, served in a large bottle that yields about two regular-sized drinks. "As the cocktail slowly melts the ice, you start to get the aroma of the flower in a very subtle way," Chon said. "As you're enjoying the second cocktail, at the end portion of it, especially if you're out on The Terrace, the ice will completely melt so that the actual flower will be exposed and you get a stronger flavor of the flower."

AM/PM ($10) at Two

1132 W. Grand Ave. 312-624-8363

"This is basically our answer to the mocha Frappuccino," said Two's owner Yamandu Perez of the AM/PM—a vodka, Kahlua and white chocolate mixture poured over a coffee ice cube. The bartender heats Julius Meinl coffee and a few secret spices into a syrup, and then freezes the mixture into a cube. The liquors are shaken until frothy—"You have to shake the living crap out of it," Perez said—and then poured over the cube, which remains hidden by the slightly sweet liquid until the cocktail is halfway finished. If this sounds like a cross between your morning coffee and nighttime dessert, that's the goal—and the inspiration for the drink's name.

Hirsch Gupta ($18) at Rebar

401 N. Wabash Ave. 312-588-8034

When people visit Trump Tower, they're expecting attention to detail. That's why the hotel's two lounges, Rebar and outdoor bar The Terrace at Trump, added an ice program, which cranks out perfectly clear cubes as well as ice in flavors such as rosewater, raspberry and lime-cucumber. Most intriguing, though, is the smoked ice cube at the center of the bourbon-based Hirsch Gupta cocktail. Crushed ice chips are cold-smoked over cedar and frozen into an oversized square cube, which increases the smoky flavor in the cocktail as it melts. "When you first get it in the glass, the smoke is not the first thing you notice," said Christopher Roberts, Trump's director of food and beverage. "But the melting ice does cause the drink to evolve over time, and it plays off the flamed orange peel and Creole bitters in the cocktail."

Peared cocktail at Drumbar

Light Guard Punch ($15) at Drumbar

201 E. Delaware Place 312-943-5000

Flavored ice has become a signature of this nearly year-old rooftop lounge on the 18th floor of the Raffaello Hotel. Following the popularity of the cinnamon ice cube in Drumbar's Peared cocktail, beverage director Craig Schoettler recently introduced a springy pineapple juice ice cube in his Light Guard Punch. "Yes, we could make an ice cube out of anything we want, but the reason the pineapple is in there is because it's a flavor already in the cocktail and because it slowly changes it as the ice melts," Schoettler said. The pineapple flavor plays up the sweeter notes in the Paul Beau cognac and a Hungarian sweet wine called tokaji that form the base of the drink, which also includes Fino sherry and a splash of champagne poured tableside. "I don't like doing things just because I know how to do it or because it's fancy or cool," Schoettler said. "There has to be a reason that benefits the drink, not just the wow factor."

NIGHTCRAWLERS

SEEN ON THE SCENE AT ... PROHIBIT, 116 W. HUBBARD ST.

NV Penthouse Lounge is a great place to enjoy the Chicago skyline, but some chilly nights call for a more intimate, subterranean space. That's when you head downstairs to Prohibit. NV's recently opened sibling lounge, for some candlelit conversation. —CRAIG SEYMOUR, FOR REDEYE

Nic Lopez 23, recent graduate

You just graduated from Ole Miss. Do they party harder in the South or Midwest?

The bigger the city, the bigger the party.

What's the quintessential Ole Miss drink?

Whiskey-ginger. Whiskey is really big in the South.

What are you drinking and why?

Vodka-Red Bull. I'm just trying to party and have a good time.

Amanda Saylor 23, grad student

What brings you out tonight?

My good friend is the DJ, and I heard this place was really, really fun.

What are you drinking and why?

A vodka-Red Bull. It gives me energy. It gives me wings.

Hayley Graham 28, attorney

What are you drinking and why?

Grey Goose and soda, but normally I drink Grey Goose and water.

As an attorney, what would have been your advice for Reese Witherspoon?
Shut the hell up.

Thank You
Chicago!

Bombolini
LENNY GILMORE/REDEYE FILE

Blanco de Invierno cocktail ($9) at Barcito

151 W. Erie St. 312-274-1111

Finding a light, bubbly spring cocktail that isn't fruity or syrupy-sweet is no easy feat, but this white wine-based drink at Tavernita's sibling bar fits the bill. Anise-flavored liqueur adds depth while a splash of cava tops it off with some fizz. Pull up a chair on the sidewalk patio and pretend you're in Spain-temporarily. —KATE BERNOT

Bombolini ($9) at Siena Tavern

51 W. Kinzie St. 312-595-4322
One night while eating lasagna at the bar of this Italian restaurant in River North, diners on either side of me ordered the bombolini for dessert. Taking it as a sign, I followed suit. These puffy, fluffy doughnuts manage to be doughy and rich but not too heavy. They're served with a rotating trio of sauces for dipping, served in little squeeze bottles so cute that you may have to resist tucking them in your bag to take home. —LISA ARNETT

Rebecca Hall loves designer labels. While promoting "Iron Man 3," Hall showed off her expensive tastes on the red carpet.

For the movie's London premiere, Hall chose a Lanvin spring 2013 black jumpsuit with plunging neckline, an obi-style belt and Giuseppe Zanotti heels. She wore a bright poppy lip color and accessorized with De Beers jewelry and a Lanvin clutch.

To get Hall's jumpsuit look with a less expensive price tag, try these pieces.

Any pair of strappy black heels could work with this look, but we recommend: Ann Taylor Lia strappy platform heel $128 at anntaylor.com

Rise of the 2-inch heel

Chicago Tribune

A backlash of sorts to soles the size of monster truck tires, low-profile pumps are shaping up to be the height of chic this spring. A fresh crop of '50s- and '60s-inspired pumps carry their weight on a trusty 1- or 2-inch heel, often stocky or kitten-heeled with a single sole, no platform.

"Those platforms have been starting to feel vulgar to me for a while," said Stacy London, co-founder of Style for Hire (styleforhire.com), author of "The Truth About Style" and co-host of "What Not To Wear" on TLC. "I'm seeing a push away from that stripper heel. It's about something much more ladylike, pointy toes, curved heels, more delicate."

Kitten heels channel Audrey Hepburn.

Block heels with square toes evoke the mod era celebrated by "Austin Powers." Some should be styled with extreme caution lest you inadvertently resemble Queen Elizabeth instead of the duchess formerly known as Kate Middleton.

"There's a lot of heaviness at the foot for spring," said Sharon Graubard, fashion director at Stylesight, a firm that provides fashion trend analysis. "If you're going to wear a leggy look with a short skirt, you don't want to wear spike heels. It balances it to have a heavier foot."

No matter how pert the skirt, if you simply can't shake the Dowager Countess associations with this kindly heel, a wedge is an equally hospitable and fresh alternative this spring, London suggests.

CURRENT GOLD AND SILVER PRICES MAY REPRESENT AN ATTRACTIVE BUYING OPPORTUNITY FOR SAVVY INVESTORS

Experts say retirement plans should include physical precious metals

Recent headlines about gold prices have left many investors scratching their heads. Is physical gold still a good long-term investment? Historically speaking, yes.

Investors looking to preserve wealth and hedge against inflation, especially in retirement accounts such as an IRA or 401(k), want the safety and security of a hard asset like physical gold or silver that's not going to "go out of business" like companies do, taking their stock values with them.

Fortunately, getting answers to the many questions investors have about gold is as easy as making a free phone call to the leading company in gold IRAs: American Bullion, at 800-897-9664. American Bullion offers a free Gold Guide that clearly explains everything about adding physical gold and silver to an IRA or previous 401(k).

"Diversifying your retirement portfolio into gold or silver is called a rollover or transfer, and we have helped thousands of people do it over the years," says Jon Nelson of American Bullion. "We have a quick, simple process that is completely hassle-free and 100% tax-free."

"We believe there is a fantastic buying opportunity in gold and silver right now," Nelson says. "Everyone has questions about investing in gold, and we love to answer them."

FREE "Gold Guide" available by calling 800-897-9664.

There are many factors affecting the price of gold. But the fact remains that over time – in fact, over centuries – gold has been the asset of choice for anyone looking to preserve their wealth.

"If you just want to request a copy of our free Gold Guide, give us a call at 800-897-9664," mentions American Bullion's Nelson. "But if you want to spend some time talking about gold and silver, we're always ready for that conversation, too!"

Wake up your makeup bag

Chicago Tribune

The makeup bag is the beauty equivalent of the bra—a workhorse that deserves more thought and thanks than it typically gets. No matter how restrained or neutral your wardrobe, a vibrant cosmetics bag can lift (the mood) and separate (the goods) for a cheerful yet efficient start to the day. And it makes a high-functioning gift for any other overachiever—such as mom. Here are a few sure to brighten her smile, powder her nose and put a sparkle in her eye for summer.

Vera Bradley medium cosmetics bag

$26 at verabradley.com

The Goldilocks of cosmetics bags, this size is just right for legions of fans who use it to contain everything from school supplies to device chargers. While it has Vera's quilted exterior in her assorted prints, the interior is plastic to contain any leaks from bottles. "It's now my go-to gift for friends for their birthdays or Christmas," writes one fan.

Tory Burch hanging zip cosmetic case

$145 at toryburch.com

The emerald and navy print on this one looks like a wall-paper we'd see on "Mad Men." In coated poplin that wipes clean, the case unzips to hang on a door, conserving space. Two transparent zipper compartments keep things as simple and neat as Don Draper's whiskey.

Kate Spade Le Pavillion large Manuela

$138 at katespade.com

The online reviews of this dotty bag couldn't be more glowing. "Love this bag," writes one convert. "I got it after wearing out one of my old toiletry bags and decided I wanted something that could organize both my makeup and my bathing products. I use one compartment for my makeup, one for my makeup brushes, another for my toothbrush and face wipes, and the third for lotion, shampoo, hair products, etc. This keeps everything separated, and it's much easier to clean. ... I definitely recommend this product." Enough said.

Sonia Kashuk beauty organizer

$24.99 at Target

Makeup artist Sonia Kashuk's cosmetics bags for Target come in scads of sizes and shapes. The beauty organizer hits the sweet spot of roominess without bulk. Two transparent and removable zip pouches provide maximum visibility for shadows, blush, mascara and more. The middle layer adds an elastic pocket, ideal for hygienic but accessible storage of makeup brushes. A jumbo zip plastic pocket can accommodate hair brushes and styling products. And the whole pack zips closed to be not much thicker than two iPads.

FACEOFF

REBOUND!

NICK KROLL VS. WILL ARNETT

GETTY IMAGES
PHOTOS

By Dana Moran | REDEYE
Looks like those saucy smirks Amy Poehler was throwing around during the Golden Globes paid off. The “Parks and Recreation” star is dating “The League” star Nick Kroll, huffingtonpost.com reports. As we’re sure your poor, broken, wrenched-apart hearts recall, Amy split with husband Will Arnett in September, so we’re glad to see our girl back in the game. How does her rebound stack up against her ex? We took to the faceoff to find out. DAMORAN@TRIBUNE.COM | @REDEYEDANA

NICK: Dude’s got his own show on Comedy Central called “Kroll Show.” There’s some suspicious facial hair, but you’ve gotta be pretty funny to have a show named after you. ☐

COMEDY
CHOPS

☒ WILL: “Arrested Development.” That’s all you really need to know, even though there’s way more.

WINNER: WILL. Especially in today’s hotbed comedic climate, “AD” transcends all.

Hmm, he hasn’t been around long enough for us to really know yet, but he did play a babysitter on Season 2 of “Burning Love,” so that’s gotta count for something, right? ☒

GOOD GUY?

☐ We’re highly suspicious that there was some hanky-panky going on with “Up All Night” co-star Christina Applegate, based on their totes-snuggly promotional photos.

WINNER: NICK. WILL’S NOT ACTING IN THESE PHOTOS, PEOPLE.

Looks like the guy who sold your brother his first “Dungeons and Dragons” dice. ☐

HOTTIE FACTOR

☒ Looks like that bro-ish guy in your friend group who always has a knowing twinkle in his eye.

WINNER: WILL. Dammit if we can’t resist that twinkle!

Plays radio shock jock The Douche on “Parks and Rec” ☐

ONSCREEN
WITH AMY

☒ Amy played his wife, a certified seal saleswoman and Army soldier, on “Arrested Development.”

WINNER: WILL. Their characters met while she was in the process of selling five sick seals to a zoo in Chad. Do you really need to know more?

Just starting to shine. But he was on “New Girl” recently! ☒

STAR POWER

☐ Mega-watty. He’s even been cast in the new “Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles” movie, and you know those dudes are huge.

WINNER: NICK. Let Amy be the biggest star in her relationship.

OVERALL WINNER AMY POEHLER. Honestly, neither of these guys is worthy of her. Let us know if Jon Hamm gets single any time soon.

Meet Lily.

She was born in Chihuahua, Chihuahua, Mexico and is the sister of our very first retail employee, Spring. She began working for the company at a retail store in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is currently working as an auditor for our stores in Europe.
